

Rmetrics Publishing – The Publisher for the R Community

We offer you save and easy, flexible and science friendly publishing
Visit us at finance.e-bookshelf.ch

About the Rmetrics bookshelf - Who we are?

The Rmetrics Publishing Project offers a non-profit taking platform for the distribution of eBooks in the field of R in Finance and Insurance, in Computational Finance and Financial Engineering as well as in applied Econometrics and Statistics. You will find on the Rmetrics platform

- Textbooks and teaching material
- monographs and handbooks
- conference, workshop and summer school proceedings
- lecture notes and manuscripts for the class room
- master and PhD theses of common interest
- user, reference, and software guides

All these documents make your life easier when you are learning or teaching R and they will support you as an R programmer and/or developer. Most of the documents you can download for free, some may be charged by the authors.

Become an Author and Publish with Rmetrics - What you will get

We help you to become an author and to publish easily your books on the Rmetrics platform.

- we run a professional peer reviewing for textbooks
- we guarantee a rapid publication from acceptance to publication
- you retain the copyright of all your publications
- you are free to share, adapt, und unlimited use your work
- there are no limitations or restrictions set by the publisher
- there are no arbitrary constraints on article length or presentation
- we provide for your publication an ISBN publishing number
- we offer you a professional design of the cover page
- we advertise your book on the web
- we send you quarterly download reports of your publications

It will be also possible for authors to sell their book on the Rmetrics platform. From the price of your eBook you will get 70%, the rest remains with the bookshelf to cover the costs. Your book will also be available on partner online eBook stores worldwide.

Any Ideas for a New eBook?

If you have ideas for a new book, don't hesitate to talk to Viktoria Forgacs at the conference or contact us per email at ebooks@finance.ch
Rmetrics Association Zurich, finance.e-bookshelf.ch
Your work will get the attention it deserves!

